

June Newsletter

We have pictures this month from Dorian and from Karen Singer who provided the beautiful flowers and the Hummingbird Blessing.

Spring was basically cold and gray as the picture above shows the mood of many days. We had a lot of snow days and then it turned to rainy days which have been most welcome. Now, it is almost Summer and time is flying by so quickly. We are actually experiencing temperatures in the low 80's now.

We are remodeling everything. The remodel on our center in town is coming along beautifully. The upstairs has all new paint, carpet, light fixtures and a new tiny kitchen with lovely cabinets made by the contractor who is amazing. Jay Blakemore has Wooden Creations and he has done a fabulous job of orchestrating all of the workmen and getting things done on time.

We got new carpet in our den at home in early May and liked it so well that we are getting the same carpet in living room, dining room and master bedroom. We had new vinyl laid in the master bath and liked it so well that we will have it put into the wash room and kitchen. It gives the house a whole new look, kind of golden tones to everything.

We have seen the passing of a truly great woman as May ended. Maya Angelou was a Masterful example of how to overcome most any obstacle that life could bring and still shire. Her legacy is a gift that will last forever. Live beyond your limits.

The first six months of the Personal Growth ends this month and most everyone who started intends to continue. The consensus of opinion is that they couldn't quit now, things are getting too interesting. A few have said, "I couldn't live without it now that I know that it exists". It truly is Life altering.

We would like to invite you to contribute to the newsletter. If you would like to submit an article on pertinent subject matter or pictures that are special to you we would love to share them. Send articles and/or pictures to mollyrowland22@gmail.com

Our intensive "Living beyond the Illusion" is a clearly defined understanding of what we are experiencing now, where it is going and how to be well with the changes. St. Germain takes you to the next level and beyond, moving into recognition of the new energy, being comfortable with how different it is and how we are becoming New Humans. There were no clearly defined meditations—however, much of the energy of the intensive is of meditative quality. There is much to feel into and practice its application in our daily living.

The set of seven CDs is $100 and it is priceless in the help you receive for the changing times.

St. Germain continues to offer the “Personal Growth” package. Each month you can get the Teachings, Q & A and a one hour private session with St. Germain to develop your personal evolution in spirit. The cost will be $120 per month with a six month commitment which is a great deal as a one hour private session is $200 normally. Just imagine spending an hour of valuable time each month discussing anything about your growth that you wish with the Master. We have the good fortune of spending time with him regularly and it is such an up lifting experience.

Rainbow Center News

Our June group is “Look within and find the Master that You are”. So much is happening and everything is changing. We have been taught that everything of any importance exists outside of us. We now must find the courage to discover and recover the most valuable part of who we are—our connection to the Divine within. St. Germain and all of the Masters that are assisting us in the changes desire that we make this connection and rise up to live in the higher frequencies. The group will be at 2 pm at our home in Lander. We invite call-ins. The group is $25 by phone or in person and CDs or mp3s are $15. To call-in sign up for the group on line or call Molly 307 335-8113 and you will receive the call-in code.

CD’s can be purchased on the website at www.voiceofthegatekeepers.com/2014groups.html

Our Teaching with the Master for June is “Fear is not a Weakness!” Fear is everywhere. The feeling that nothing is the same is creating an underlying sense that something isn’t right. There really is nothing wrong—just everything is changing and it all feels different. The EGO sounds an alarm when things begin to feel too different and fear can be the outcome. Fear itself is not the problem, but giving oneself over to the fear that seems to take your strength and numb your mind. Learning how to rise up over fear is where each person is now required to move. The Call-in for the Teaching is at 7 p.m. MT on the 2nd Wednesday of each month and the Q&A Call-in is the 4th Wednesday of each month at 7 p.m.

If you haven’t had the experience of the Teachings that St. Germain is offering this year they really help us to understand what is going on. It just might be worth your while to check them out. The deep healing power of the Master is there to experience again and again as you listen to the awesome wisdom that he brings. CDs are $15 for each set—Teachings or Q&A. It is $25 to call in one time or $40 for both sessions each month. Postage and handling are separate.

ASTROLOGY

FULL MOON-JUNE 12-13

Humanity is evolving from duality into unity, moving from the illusion of separation to the truth of our total connection to each other in the Reality of Oneness. Making a dimensional shift is like going from a very narrow canyon of limitation to a very high mountain plateau where you can see FOREVER. In the higher perspective we can see so much that has always been there, but in the illusion of smallness this kind of expansion has been considered impossible and therefore the fear of experiencing it is still great. The shift is planetary. The impact is very personal.

Gemini is the sign that is associated with the mind, intelligence and our cognizance of life and each other. Sagittarius deals with our interpretation of the information that we receive through the mind. It governs our judgments, concepts and beliefs around what is real, true and possible. Until the last few years, we could keep our eyes on the horizon and feel confident that that was as high as we were required to look. Suddenly, everything is expanding and the horizon is a mark of limit rather than an indication of expansion.

This Full Moon coincides with the third of three grand crosses this year involving Mars, Jupiter, Uranus and Pluto. For the last six months we have been under intense pressure to resolve four different areas of our lives: Clear recognition of our True Self (Aries), Relationships of all types (Libra), Family—personal, community and global (Cancer) and our work ethics and how the patriarchy has defined work (Capricorn). The more that we resist the changes, the more frustrating, fatiguing and stifling circumstances are becoming. When we are centered and grounded in our spiritual core, in touch with the Soul Center the clearer we can see the way out of old patterns and mindsets. The first grand square was high-lighted by the Gemini-Sagittarius Full Moon on December 17, 2013. The second and most compelling grand square peaked April 20-22, with all four planets at 14 degrees during the height of the fifth Uranus-Pluto square and in between two eclipses (April 15 and April 29). This third grand cross reaches its height between June 14 and 25 at 13 degrees 23 minutes, again revealing where we require to let go and move forward. At this Full Moon Venus at 18 Taurus and Saturn at 18 Scorpio urges us to recognize our value in a whole new way and forgive the emphasis on limitation. What changes have come to your attention in the last six months that you have been avoiding dealing with? It is time to move on with the shifts.

Mercury, traditional ruler of Gemini, is retrograde from June 7 to July 1 (3 Cancer to 24 Gemini) exposing where we require to finish uncompleted issues and to seek an understanding of blending thought and feeling to reach a higher understanding. Communication is truly a personal affair. The distance that we have created with current technology denies our human involvement in life. Talking on cell phones, texting and tweeting imparts information, but mostly disallows our sharing of our deepest thoughts and feelings. So much of the communication that we have been taught—blame, criticism and judging—promote a sense of rejection when more than ever we wish to belong. We might not consider ourselves violent or bullying, but when we feel that we have a right to say whatever we think about others without a thought we are committing psychological destruction. When we judge someone else we are, in fact, judging ourselves because we are all one.

Conscious conversation is a way of getting in touch with each other and the thoughts, ideas and feelings that connect us. In the Celestine Prophecy the Eighth insight addresses this as a part of connecting with other people in a higher way. When we look at people to find their True self or Soul self we see a totally different person than if we are looking in criticism or judgment. When you allow yourself to look gently with “soft vision” you can see deeper into someone (you may even see their face change as you look) and that makes all the difference in the world in how you will relate to them. We can receive wonderful messages from total strangers, as well as those that we know, when we are open to connecting in agape or Divine Love.

Marianne Williamson reminds us that “Nothing binds you except your thoughts; nothing limits you except your fear; and nothing controls you except your beliefs.

NEW MOON: JUNE 27 in Cancer

At the New Moon we are in the dark, witnessing the Void of Creation in the blackness of the night. In the light of day we are external, but at the New Moon most of what is occurring is internal, operating in the realms of intuition. It is a time of reflection, to take in the information that is pouring into our psyche from the Cosmos. Our Western society draws away from tuning into ourselves and spending time in darkness. We have much to learn in these changing times about how to relate well, first to ourselves and then through that connection to relate to others. This New Moon gives us several signals that we are ready to accept the feminine and gain a deeper integration with our shadow self.

Cancer deals with the feminine nature and the emotional body. Males have been deemed by society to be more valuable than females, logic is valued over feelings, power is assumed to be greater than relationship. As with the previous Full Moon we are called to make perceptual shifts in how we see ourselves, others and our World.

Cancer being the first water represents all that the water element stands for—water and life are inseparable, both on the physical and metaphysical levels. Feelings must flow and we have been taught for lifetimes that emotional expression is a sign of weakness and must be suppressed. Stagnant water breeds disease just as repressed feelings can make us ill. Now everything that is happening in the planets is moving all of us to honor our feelings and allow them. Emotions are tied to our needs. As we begin to shift into higher frequencies our feelings open us to spiritual evolution. Our desire for creative flow and community with others is a part of our sacred oneness. As we forgive the belief that we are separate from God and all of humanity we can come home to ourselves wholly. As we have become disconnected from our spiritual understanding we have turned to others to validate us rather than owning ourselves within. The Celestine Prophecy has very simple, yet in depth information about being well with our feeling nature and all manner of relationships that we encounter in our lives.

Several conjunctions offer exceptional cosmic support for a profound shift in how we relate to feelings and the feminine. On June 28, Venus, the Goddess of Love joins Juno, archetype of marriage and equal partnerships. On July 5, Ceres, named for the great Goddess, conjoins Vesta, the mythic priestess of the sacred flame (22 Libra). Mars, lower octave of Pluto, joins Ceres on July 12 (23 Libra), the North Node on July 13 (24 Libra) and Vesta on July 15 (25 Libra). The last time that Ceres and Vesta were conjunct in Libra was on September 16, 1705 (7 degrees Libra); the next time will be on November 14, 2202 at 6 degrees Libra. This extremely rare alignment of Ceres and Vesta in Libra, the sign of equality and balance, signals shifts in the collective consciousness making us ready for more holistic, co-creative relationship with the feminine, with our fellow humans and with our home, Earth.

Jupiter at 26 degrees Cancer squares the lunar nodes in Libra-Aries, increasing the cosmic requirement for integration and balancing the inner male and female. This New Moon also forms a grand cross with Mars, Uranus, and Pluto, maintaining the evolutionary pressure in place since last December. A slightly less intense but still galvanizing t-square continues through mid-July, as the Sun in Cancer opposes Pluto at 12 degrees Capricorn on July 4, squares Uranus at 16 degrees Aries on July 8 and squares Mars at 27 degrees Libra on July 18.

In order to grow we are required to surrender our concepts of security. Uranus and Pluto both call for us to let go of everything that no longer serves us. If we do not change we do not grow and thus we will never know just what true security really is. "Look within and listen. In that stillness you may hear the voice of God".

Animals and Humans---A Magikal Connection

Happy June to all of you. The weather is definitely moderating and I'm really enjoying that. The flower boxes and garden have been planted, a lot of weeds have been pulled and life is good!

Anyone who knows Bob and me, knows we love our cats. We have two old orange tabbies, Apollo and Zeus, who came to us as babies and are now fifteen years old. That is really remarkable as we live next to a busy road. Lucky Lady was a feral kitten who decided she wanted to become a house cat. The boys get to love her as she won't take no for an answer! A lot of the time you will find all of the cats, as well as my husband, curled up in his chair fast asleep. You might say they are having a cat nap!

As I watched the cats this morning, I thought how magical our connection was. Animals tend to take on our miseries and definitely help us to heal. Shouldn't we help them in every way possible? So many of stones that help us humans to heal can also benefit our animals. We are often plagued by ticks and mosquitoes and even fleas sometimes if our pets have them.

Keeping in mind that animals are quite elemental in nature so we would use only the very basic stones to help them. Some stones can be used in the drinking water and others could be placed where they tend to sleep most of the time.

Amethyst is the ideal stone to protect your pet from fleas, ticks and mosquitoes when placed in the drinking water. Be sure the stone is large enough to prevent choking or attach it in some way to the dish. Amethyst would also enhance the energy of the water. Put some in your drinking water, too. It is wonderful.

Fluorite, blue and purple, would be most beneficial for cleansing because animals tend to pick up the same negative energies in their auric fields that humans do. Very often animals will pick up from us what we call riders. Do not put this in water.

Malachite, when used in conjunction with Turquoise, will soothe pain and injuries and assist the animal to process and allow for the healing. This stone is very healing and will work with humans as well. As with the Fluorite, this should not be put in water.

Lepidolite works with animals that are hyper by nature and when used with Obsidian and/or Hematite, will help to ground them. It is natural lithium and would aid us with our many stresses. This stone could be made into an elixir and the water drunk.

There are other stones that might be helpful with the animals. If you have any questions and desire more information, please contact me. In the meantime, enjoy your journey!

EVERYON IS A CHANNEL

I have been asked so many questions about being a channel over the years—“What is it like?” “Where do you go when you channel?” “How does it feel?” “How can I do this?” I decided to attempt to tell you about a process that is so much a part of my life after almost twenty-eight years that I feel that it is natural. However, I know that to many people it is a mystery. I find that some people think that it is frightening and/or disturbing. Others are intrigued and there are those who think that channeling is just sitting down, closing your eyes and saying whatever you think.

There are many people who believe that it is just me talking. I want to say that I consider this quite a compliment. Even though St. Germain says that we are all Masters, the information that He brings through is amazing to me and I always learn so much from listening to what He says. He talks about subjects that I do not know about and He has directed me to investigate things that I would have never thought about being interested in.

When I was seventeen years old I read in a book on metaphysical tools that you could take a deck of playing cards, lay them out in a certain pattern and tell people about themselves and answer their questions. I thought that that was fascinating. I started doing readings for friends and family. My mother-in-law was interested in the Oujia board and she found that I could work it with her. I was never comfortable with the Oujia board, but I would sit with her to make her happy. I always felt that the answers were inconclusive.

When I was in my early twenties I got a book on astrology “Astrology for the Millions” by Llewellyn. I was working with a group of high school boys, most of whom were having problems at home and/or school. I asked them when their birthdays were and with the help of the book I began to talk to them about what was going on in their lives. I got the birthdays of parents when I could and found that the information of parent and child together gave me an understanding about why the issues were happening. There were seventeen boys—only one went to reform school. The rest began to deal with their problems and started doing better in school. Seven of them became ministers in different faiths. Now, as a great grandmother, I realize that part of the changes I witnessed came from my simply paying attention to them, letting them know that they were important. My husband was teaching them to be Ham radio operators and I think between the two of us we made a difference in the lives of these boys.

My children were raised in the climate of metaphysics. They were interested and curious about what I was doing. When they asked questions I did my best to answer them as truthfully and clearly as possible. My daughter is now a nurse and has used a lot of the things that she learned as a child in her nursing techniques. My older boy has been involved from time to time in his life, but not as interested as Sarah. The younger son was very interested until he was in his twenties and then he became involved in the Baptist church and decided that what I was doing was wrong. Because I was raised in the church (Methodist) and raised the children in church I have never felt that there was a gap between what I believe and what churches teach. The difference, I feel, is that I have no need to control people with what I tell them and often the churches want followers, not self-sufficient thinkers. You can be yourself within a church only by fitting into the narrow parameters of what you are told. Most religions, or at least those people who follow the religion closely by letter, get upset if you venture out too far beyond the tenants of that particular belief. You can be ostracized if you do not comply to what you are told. I find it interesting that as we moved around and went to a number of different churches that all professed to be one name the belief systems presented were more regional than consistent with a certain understanding that the church as a whole adhered to. I went to a number of ministers, as I requested to understand what was going on spiritually, and they all just told me to “take it on faith”. When I said, “Faith in what?” they said, “God, of course”. I said, “So tell me about God”. Mostly, these “men of the cloth”, immediately, had other things to do. I truly wanted to understand what they knew. I soon began to wonder what they weren’t telling me. One of the most comforting things that I found when St. Germain began to channeling through me was that he would answer any question clearly and at a length and depth that I did not feel I would ever find.

I remember when we lived in Uvalde, Texas and we were going to the Christian Church (I joined the Christian Church when I married). I was talking with the minister’s wife and I said something about God knowing everything that we do. She got very agitated. She said, “I DON’T WANT GOD TO KNOW EVERYTHING THAT I DO!!!” I was amazed, because I could not see how anyone, especially a minister’s wife, could think that God didn’t know everything. (Ah, life experiences)

I felt very close to God as I got older. However, when I was little I am sure that my parents thought that they were teaching me wonderful lessons about tithing by giving me an “allowance” of twenty-five cents and then making me give it all to the church on Sunday. I thought that God was a thief who was depriving me of my money. I wasn’t even allowed to keep a part of it. It took quite a while to get past that belief and realize that it wasn’t God doing that after all.

Over the twenty-two years that I was married to my first husband we moved a lot and I went to many different churches. I found that it wasn’t the name over the door, but whether I felt that God was in the sanctuary that really mattered to me. As time passed, I learned that it truly was God in me that counted because that meant that God was anywhere that I am.

While we were in Uvalde, I not only discovered astrology, but I learned about Tarot cards. My first deck of Tarot cards to work with was the Crowley deck. I thought that the art work was beautiful and I felt right at home with the esoteric information of the cards. I worked with that deck for over twenty years.

In 1986 I met two men from Spokane, Washington who were psychics. I had always been pretty much on my own in what I did and my world was about to CHANGE. I attended a psychic fair in Vancouver, B.C. (I had been living in Billings, MT for eleven years and I was married to my second husband.) I boarded a Greyhound and rode twenty-eight hours to Vancouver. I had only crossed an International border at Mexico and there were no strict rules there at that time. I had my luggage searched, exchanged my money and got more than I had and thought that Canada was pretty nifty.

I had never even heard of a psychic fair before so I had no idea what to do for a booth. I made a pink table cloth, pink cushions and a pink sign. I got pink, artificial roses and put them into a crystal vase. I had pink business cards made and pink fliers. I got to the fair and there were over one hundred and fifty readers. Most of the “new kids on the block” were in reader’s row, which was a place for newbies to practice. I was an oddity because I just jumped in, signed up for all four fairs that this woman Norma was putting on and got my own booth. I set up my little pink booth and it glowed like a neon sign amidst all of the dark purple, dark green and black booths. You could look down the isle that my booth was on and spot my place right away. I was impressed by all of the people, but I felt that I had found a place where I fit after years of feeling different.

One of the things that I was told at the psychic fair was that the Crowley deck is evil. My response was that it was my personal deck and how I used it was not evil therefore for me it was not an evil tool. I know that Aliester Crowley was involved in the “dark arts”, but that did not mean that I had to follow him. In 1986, St. Germain suggested that it was time for me to get a new deck of Tarot cards—one that would be “about where things are going rather than where things had been”. Within a week I discovered the Voyager deck, which was created for inner work, and I have used it ever since. It gives a very clear view of what is going on with the person that I read for.

Next month I will continue my story, including how St. Germain showed up in my life.

I invite questions about channeling. I named this section “Everyone is a Channel” because that is a class that I teach and something that St. Germain has said from the time He began to work with me. Email: mollyrowland22@gmail.com.

ST. GERMAIN'S MESSAGE

Dearly Beloved Masters, mastery is not hard work. In fact, if you are working at it you probably feel as though you are not getting anywhere.

The Game of Separation created a world of servants and masters who were required to tell the servants what to do. Gradually this scenario resolved itself into servants who became victims of their masters and masters who, in the arrogance of their belief in power over, became intimidators.

Jesus was a servant in the finest, highest sense of the word. Gracious, loving, accepting of all that He served from the understanding that service rendered in Love is nobility. In this essence one lives in the state of Grace continuously. Long ago every human on the planet understood this state of Grace as a natural part of their life. Slowly, very slowly, separation began to insidiously infect the mind and turn the thoughts to a need for more than what life seemed to offer in Grace. Because each Soul agreed to play the Game all were willing to explore the possibilities of this “more” that physical life could offer.

The first death was inspired by the jealousy of one brother feeling that the parents loved the other brother “more”. Separation descended and loneliness invaded the emotional body—a feeling of being cut off from human contact led to feelings of being alienated from God. The mind became the ruler rather than the Spirit and the Game of Separation began to be played in earnest.

Those who saw themselves as superior to others began to create a hierarchy that implied that a certain people were deemed by God to make judgments of right and wrong to CONTROL the servants. In the very beginning of physicality the leaders were connected to the God-force and led with pure intent, but as the Game intensified the rulers became corrupt and the implied Holiness began to turn to greed and the “need for MORE”. MORE became the driving force, over time, and then the belief that God had left was instilled to lessen the fire of life in the servants. The Rulers said, “We are your God or God told us what to do and you must obey our wishes in order to survive”. For a time there were Mother Worshipers who held the energy of the Divine Feminine and then they were destroyed by the power mongers who needed MORE. This MORE became a driving hunger that nothing seemed to satisfy. Taking what others possessed seemed to quench the thirst of the Need for MORE for a time and then the gnawing hunger would begin again and nothing seemed help but war. Fighting over possessions—land, goods, women, even children—become the focus of life. Men found that even though women preferred not to engage in battle, when women were put into a position of having to protect their children or defend their home they were far deadlier fighters than men because they were driven by the passion of love of their own. Slowly this passion began to be used to divide people by a false loyalty—my family, goods, home, land is more important than the whole. IN DIVINE LOVE THE WHOLE EMBRACES ALL OF THE PARTS. NOTHING, NO ONE IS LEFT OUT, REJECTED OR OVERLOOKED. In separation, there developed conflict over who would be the most important. Slowly, divisions were formed over race, religion, class, education and gender. Everything became a point of conflict to get MORE or prevent others from having MORE.

As the old order is passing suddenly the NEED for MORE is greater than ever and Revelation is revealing the absolute discount for all of life that many humans have developed in their quest for MORE. It is no longer necessity, but an addiction to acquiring, having, amassing that drives many to a frenzy of MORE, MORE, MORE.

At the same time there are those who are feeling changes within themselves that are moving them to a deeper understanding that the MORE everyone is seeking is not of the physical, temporal world (things) but the remembrance of the ALL that every Soul felt in the beginning when every Soul was connected to ALL (At-One-Ment).

Separation has created many false beliefs about survival, relationship and life in general. The planet is moving from the illusion of separation to the Truth of our connectedness with ALL.

To truly serve one must be willing to accept all that they are right now. You cannot give to another what you do not have. If you do not recognize your worth, your goodness, your divine connection, then you cannot share these amazing gifts with anyone else. In fact, attempting to give what you do not have only inspires a sense of sibling rivalry over God’s Love. To be of service is a gift to all, yourself included. To feel like a “lowly” servant is a self-imposed judgment of worthlessness. To be a Master allows you to serve and serve well with no sense of loss or discount or superiority.

As you remember the ALL that you have missed in separation you recognize that God has granted unimaginable gifts that could not be found in separation. As you return to the connection of Love without any condition it is as though Heaven has opened its Gates wide and is inviting you to live your life in graciousness and gratitude for everything that is yours. No more striving or struggling to get MORE when it belongs to you already.

Love changes the outlook and attitude on life and brings a clarity that could not exist in separation. It is not about changing your mind, but about listening to your heart/Soul and hearing the warmth and sweetness that Love bestows on ALL. Love does not measure your value because Love gave you that value. You have always belonged and now the reality of that is dawning—“It’s a Whole New World”. The Mind decided that this Earth is “so bad” that in order to have a better life people would have to go somewhere else. The New Earth exists right inside of you. You do not have to go anywhere else. Raise your consciousness, raise your vibrations, raise your spiritual standards and be amazed. This is not about a judgment on others or yourself. This is about SURRENDER!!! Everything that you desire or require exists right at the tips of your fingers just beyond the veil of your disbelief.

You are a Master because you are willing to serve, rather than rule. You are a Master in Love and it feels so totally different from all of the contrivances of the EGO attempting to prove it is a Master by force.

Over time there have been many “Rulers and Authorities” who have decided that they are God’s representatives and had the Right to destroy anyone who did not agree with their version of God’s will. In many instances over time religions have destroyed many people and taken many lives in the Name of God. Right now in the Middle East men still believe that simply because they were born into the “robes of flesh” called man they possess a divine right to limit the lives of the people whom they decide are not worthy of the Love of their version of God.

No one, human or Master has the right to deny Love to any other. It becomes a denial to self of that essence—Love, abundance, well-being, belonging. It isn’t being a Servant, but the perspective of what that is that can make the life excellent or impoverished. God holds no one or any group of people as greater than any other. All are Beloved to I AM. Remember who you truly are!! In the greatest of Love I bid you Adieu.
