

December Newsletter

Here we are to December and it seems as though it was only yesterday that we were celebrating New Year's 2008. What a year this has been. There have been so many blessings and a lot of troubles for many people. St. Germain has named 2009 the year of Triumph. We are rising above a lot of the limitations that we have lived with for hundreds, if not thousands of years.

I had an amazing trip and I want to thank all of my hosts along the way--Katy Kagan in Florida, Helen Dumba in Georgia and Robert and Suzanne Bonham in Tennessee—who were all wonderful and supportive. I also wish to thank all of the wonderful people who came and visited with me and St. Germain.

The intensive "LOVE: The Magikal Healer" was quite powerful and the information was pertinent to the times. The power of love to heal is so big. We are moving to embrace a love that encompasses people and conditions that we have feared and rejected in the past. St. Germain was very clear that no matter who won the election, the end of the Mayan Calendar would occur during their term of office. As the illusions are breaking apart we all are required to be faithful to ourselves more than ever. If we don't understand love or being kind and true to self then we have no understanding to share with others, because telling people what we think will become less valid as the necessity to feel the thoughts becomes imperative.

I am noticing that getting angry, upset or reactive is really not getting anyone anything they desire. I observe people who are reactive and those who are actually practicing patience and the patient ones are even commenting that life flows so much more easily when you relax, no matter what is happening. This has always been true to a point, but intimidation tactics have caused people to comply over the centuries. Less and less these actions are working. St. Germain suggests, "Take a deep breath and allow yourself to wait when something disturbs you. The answers come, but sometimes they take a bit of time." We surely cannot rush time, but we more of it than ever before.

The validation of the changes on the planet are everywhere from astrology to Quantum physics. We truly are crossing the Rainbow Bridge and all of the colors of the Rainbow are being woven together.

Our friend Delores DeVore, who is also my web-tech, moved to Lander when I came home. I pulled a trailer with her things and she is now safely deposited in a very comfortable home. "We want to welcome her to Lander as a wonderful new addition to our community. Delores will continue to do websites, as well as, tutoring math. She also hopes to teach computer classes and offer classes and workshops in her spiritual specialty, which is sound healing.

ASTROLOGY

FULL MOON

This Full Moon in Gemini is the last of the SuperMoons of 2008. The Super Moon occurs when the Moon is both at perigee (its closest approach to Earth and syzygy (directly aligned with the Sun and Earth). Gravitational pulls are much more intense around a SuperMoon and this impacts our psyches as well. This Full Moon creates a Grand Square with Saturn, principle of physical reality, in Virgo and Uranus, the portal of metaphysical reality, in Pisces. A Grand Cross or Square always means that we are standing at a crossroads in our lives and we must choose to align our actions with our beliefs or "square" off with those beliefs.

The further a planet orbits from the Sun, the more encompassing its perspective and the more we are challenged to include that archetype in our awareness and identity. The ongoing oppositions of Saturn to Uranus offers a way up and out of the situations that we find ourselves involved in at this time. Uranus is the archetype of chaos and creation, symbolizing the conception of new forms, new paradigms and new realities. In the sign of Pisces this brings the awakening of souls that have been asleep for centuries. This spiritual revolution is not another holy war, but a requirement of us to wake up to who we truly are and our purpose for being here. These planets will actually be leading the way and offering a guiding light until July 2010 when they make their last opposition to one another.

Mars, the mythic God of War, is conjunct the Sun at this lunation, adding its energy to the Grand Cross. This spurs us on to greater things by igniting our courage and calling us to act on our convictions.

The Sabian Symbols for this Full Moon underscore the importance of community and cooperation. For the Moon at 22 degrees Gemini: "Dancing couples in a harvest festival; the wholesome enjoyment of organic processes and emotional drives." For the sun at 22 degrees of Sagittarius: "A Chinese laundry; making use of one's special racial-cultural background in order to survive and prosper in an alien environment." This is a time of Big, Big changes. Everyone is required to climb out of the rut and make a new way. Change is always for the better, though sometimes it doesn't seem that way in the moment.

NEW MOON

Conjunctions always indicate the end of a cycle and the gateway to the next adventure. This New Moon in Capricorn is concerned with the responsible management of our resources and collective structures. The question of how to equitably divide up and use the Earth—land, water, oil, mineral and property rights, government, corporations and institutions of all kinds—is of greatest importance to all. All of these areas are up for major change because we have allowed the planet to be used in an inequitable way for far too long. Capricorn urges us to face and master the challenges of the physical world. Spirit is infinite; matter is not. We have long been a boundless society.

We must learn how to respect the boundaries of our own lives and those of others. We are being forced to be responsible in the truest sense of the word—for ourselves. The parental order has encouraged everyone to mind the business of others while their own affairs became more and more tangled. We all can see how someone else could “do it better”. Now we must adjust our sights to improve our own way. We must take dominion over our own lives, be our own authority by developing maturity, integrity and self-sufficiency. “They” are not responsible for us—we are. Even those who are sick, physically handicapped or young can hold an intention for the very best outcome of their life rather than resorting to helplessness or victimization. The more we take charge of our own lives the easier things will be for everyone. This is a beginning, not an end. We are not “sheeple”, we are God’s people.

Two very interesting points occur at this New Moon at put an emphasis on the Divine male and female. Mars, male energy, is conjunct its higher spiritual octave of Pluto and Venus, feminine energy, is conjunct its higher spiritual octave of Neptune. This calls forth the highest and best of both man and woman on the planet.

Mars represents personal will and Pluto is divine collective will. This exact conjunction the day after the New Moon stresses the necessity for major economic and social transformation—away from the primary goal of personal financial gain (I feel that the attitude of fear of not enough is what really has to be attended to) and toward the highest good of all concerned. Pluto is associated with power and wealth. This includes the power of fear, the power of the shadow and the wealth that is gained when we delve into our unconscious mind. Capricorn deals with law and order. For a long time the law has played for its own side. Even in the metaphysics of our basic legal foundations the judges sit for the bank and not for the people. It has been “We are not going to play this game according to Hoyle! We are going to play the game according to how things will prosper the least amount of people.” Everyone has known it, many have fought it, but nothing will change until the collective consciousness shifts to a place where the common belief in victimization is forgiven. Pluto’s transit through Capricorn reflects a breakdown in plutocracy (where the real power is wielded by the wealthy) and an establishment of a new social order that is heart-centered rather than power-centered. Pluto descends into unrevealed and brings it to light. Arthur descended into hell to bring back the caldron of power of the Goddess. The Goddess is emerging to bring the love, the compassion and the heart-felt truth that can change the direction of the world at this time. Pluto is revealing the shadow side of the masculine: domination and destruction. The spiritual male stands for protection and preservation in the sense of liberation rather than control. Although Pluto and Mars cojoin every two years this particular blending is more powerful because of Pluto’s recent enter into Capricorn. This brings about a collective initiation into the sacred masculine, which emerges when we have faced and integrated the shadow side. Somewhere in the fifties everyone meets their shadow, according to Lazaris. When we meet the shadow we can attempt to return to our youth, give up and wait for death or face it and enter into a state of wisdom and immortality that comes from facing death and overcoming it.

On December 27th, Venus conjuncts Neptune at 22 degrees Aquarius. Neptune highlights the sacred feminine principle. It stands for unconditional love, while Venus is personal affection. The co-joining of Neptune and Venus at the New Moon brings an initiation of the heart, opening the awareness of our interconnectedness and interdependence. We have been taught that love is a weakness and something both desired and feared. We must now move into a higher perspective of what love is and how it operates in everyone’s life.

From Thanksgiving to New Year’s Eve there are no retrograde planets, for the first time in 2008. This is a cosmic message to make as much forward movement as possible. On January 1, Saturn stations to go retrograde which will slow now the movement that began on November 27 when Uranus went direct. While Saturn is retrograde we will be able to see more clearly what is no longer working in our lives. We can forgive, release, transmute or integrate the energy into our lives in a new way.

The Sabian symbol for this New Moon at 7 degrees Capricorn calls us to attend to the messages of our higher self.: “A veiled prophet speaks, seized by the power of a god; the ability to act as a mouthpiece for the revelation of a transcendent will and truth determining future action.” This is a time of contemplation on what we must release and what we truly desire to bring into our lives. Remember that what you think upon will be your tomorrow.

CRYSTAL CORNER

The holidays are upon us and soon a new year. If you’re like me, you are seeking ways to let go of some old things that no longer serve and allow others to manifest for our ongoing. A number of stones might be useful but I have decided on two primary ones for now.

ASTROPHYLLITE is a stone of light to dark matrix with patterns of gold fibers within. It has a most interesting energy. As there is an allowance of higher frequencies, of the sweeter life, of living the dream, the old black and white existence is being shifted. This brings the stirring of the higher forces, higher energies into the black and white existence. It would be a wondrous stone for those who think too much, to bring the intellect into the center through the soul. It is a stone that would, with some stringency, clear out vestiges of the old ways, the cobwebs that would be at the door of the cave of remembering. This would be very good for clearing out what we might call stuck energy.

AURACHALCITE is a striking blue crystal that is just beautiful to hold and look at. It is a conductor for clarity, the opening of the heart and listening to the truth of Self within. It washes the painful places where truth has been denied and aligns the will, which allows the entity to understand more clearly the divine directive. By its color, it is a great healer. By its essence, it is extremely high energy. It is to heal the disturbance of spirit and those wounds created in other lifetimes that have never been forgiven and affect and flaw the body.

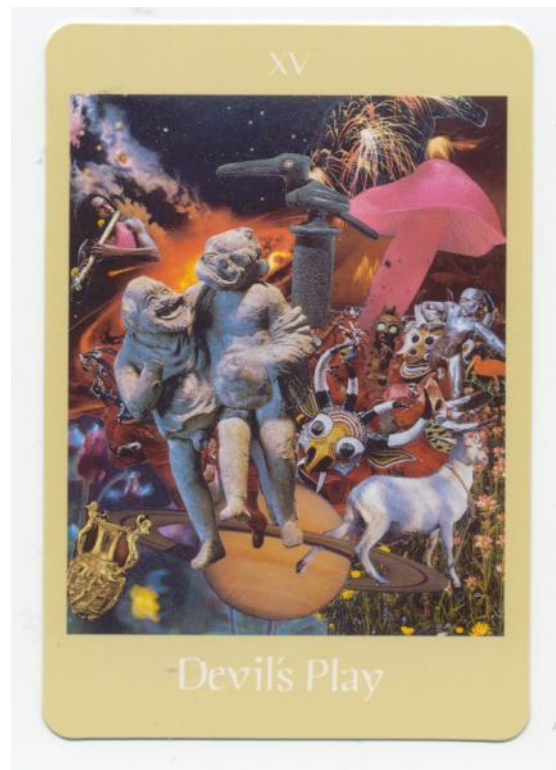

Always, one might use one of the lithium stones such as LEPIDOLITE or TEMPEST STONE to bring about a sense of calm or tranquility. These would be very useful in this time of utter chaos.

Enjoy this wonderful time of year. See you next month!

TAROT TALK

Capricorn will scale the highest of mountains in order to succeed. Number 15, the Devil's Play card, in the Voyager deck invites us to play with life. The Saturnian rulership of Capricorn can make things two-thirds more serious and it is time to lighten up. When you spell EVIL backwards it spells LIVE. When we begin to forgive our focus on the negative side of life the beauty, harmony and magik of life begin to emerge. The pre-Christian version of the Devil was Pan, the half-man, half-beast who with his bag-pipes led everyone to sing, dance and rejoice in the good life when the harvest was done. Pan represented fertility and abundance. The church watched the children of the Earth Mother celebrating and decided that they were having entirely too much fun. Things needed to be more serious and the unruly people of the Goddess had to be brought into line—dancing was made a sin, only the wine of the communion was good and songs were to be sung only when the priests or ministers lead the congregation. The Devil/Capricorn/Pan brings to life an irrepressible sense of humor and pranksterism, as well originality and vitality.

The Greek word for Devil, diabolon, means to “set at variance”—in other words, to disrupt the order. What more perfect card, the Devil, number 15, to have at this time when Pluto is entering Capricorn for the next 15 years. The goat has always had a reputation for destroying the vineyards and getting drunk in the process. The Devil’s advocate always sees the other side of any situation. We are all being nudged to take a new perspective of where life is taking us now. This is a time to break with tradition, be unconventional and try new things. Change is a blessing oft times disguised as hardship. Look for the treasure in every situation and allow everything that is not a blessing to pass away. These are some of the most exciting times the Earth has ever known. It isn’t to miss the fun by looking down all of the time. Look up, look down, look from side to side. Don’t miss a thing!

Speaking of 2009, St. Germain says that what we are seeing is the collapse of the illusions of the old order, so that we can get our feet on firm foundations for the times to come. He describes the financial conditions as meringue that has collapsed under us—it looked pretty but had no substance. Now the economy must get on solid ground which requires that everyone reexamine their spending habits. He is talking about real money as apposed to the paper game that was designed by Rothschild in the 1800’s to bring the downfall of the American economy. Careful planning went into creating the “American dream” that would lure people into a false sense of security by allowing immediate gratification. “By now and pay later” did not offer education about where the money would come from to pay the bills, it only gave relief from the heaviness of the depression and our fathers limited ideas about how to use money. We became kids in a candy shop and then we began to get so far behind that we were forced to live on credit. The song “Sixteen Tons” has become the reality for many people—“I owe my soul to the ‘credit card’ industry”. Unfortunately, intelligent, caring and otherwise responsible people allowed themselves to be swept away by the illusion of “easy money”.

The truth is that there are more millionaires and even billionaires than ever before. The hard currency exists. There must be changes that bring the accessibility to real money to the people. Just giving everyone money is not a solution because a poor man with money is still a poor man and the consciousness of how to use it wisely isn’t there. Many people are so afraid of money that as soon as they get it they set out to get rid of it. There is a requirement for education about the importance and use of currency.

St. Germain says, “The poor man comes to the rich mans door and knocks and says my bowl is empty and has a hole in it. Many will put food in the poor man’s bowl, but he doesn’t go far before all of the food is gone because it leaked out of the hole. The wise man invites the poor man in and shows him how to tinker his bowl and grow food for himself.” Far too long we have just given food, but no education because there was the underlying fear that if the “poor” got too smart they would take over. We must learn to trust one other and allow that everyone has a right to do well. The “might makes right” attitude will fall in the new paradigms. We have waited a long time to see a planet that is good for everyone. Many say this is only idealism, but if enough people will hold the ideal it can become a reality.

MUSIC TO MELLOW YOUR MUTT

I want to tell you about a very special gift that you might give to yourself or friends who have hyper or disturbed pets. My friend Robert Bonham, PH. D. who is a concert pianist, has designed a wonderful CD of classical music to calm animals. It is has gotten some very good results and is quite pleasing of distraught humans as well. It is called “Music to Mellow Your Mutt”, but it works for cats and people as well.

The music was carefully selected and programmed in accordance with the latest animal research, by Robert’s wife, Dr. Suzanne Jonus, Ed.D., who is a sound therapist and psychologist.
